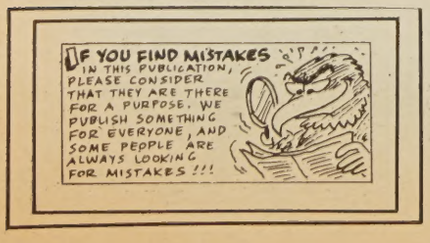
MEDITATION

Do not keep the Alabaster Boxes of your love and tenderness sealed up until your friends are dead.

Fill their lives with sweetness. Speak approving, cheering words while their ears can hear them and their hearts be thrilled by them.

Henry Ward Beecher



Dear Tac Vac

by: Ted Jefferson

Dear TAC VAC:

Q--My husband was recently separated from active duty. We are interested in getting a GI Bill loan to buy a home. What are some of the advantages of the VA guarantee?

A--VA guarantees 60 percent of such loans up to a maximum of $12,500; no down payment required usually; VA appraises the house to determine its reasonable value, and there is normally a long repayment period.

Q--After completing three years' active duty, I was honorably discharged last month. As none of my service was in Vietnam, I wonder if I am eligible for GI Bill education benefits?

A--Yes. Any veteran separated after Jan. 31, 1955, with other than a honorable discharge after at least 181 days of active duty, has eligibility for eight years or until May 31, 1974, whichever is later Geographic location of service has no bearing on eligibility. Entitlement is earned at the rate of 1½ months for each month of qualifying active service, up to a maximum of 36 months.

Q--My husband is a totally and permanently service-disabled veteran We have four children who will, during the next five years, attend college. Will each of them be eligible for VA's Dependents' Educational Assistance, or is there a limit on the number who can receive such benefits?

A--There is no limit to the number of children in each family eligible for training benefits. Each child will be allowed a maximum of 36 months' training, less training provided under any other VA law. If also eligible for GI Bill education, maximum entitlement cannot exceed 48 months under both laws.

Address all questions concerning veterans to: 1301 South "K" St.

ZAIRE PROVERBS:

A little subtleness is better than a lot of force.

Wood may remain ten years in the water, but it will never become a crocodile.

To love someone who does not love you, is like shaking a tree to make the dew drops fall.

THE BOSS returned in good humor after a two-hour lunch and called his staff into the office to hear a few jokes he had picked up. All but one girl laughed uproariously.

"What's wrong," the boss grumbled. "Don't you have a sense of humor?"

"I don't need to laugh," the girl replied. "I'm leaving Friday."

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

by G. M. Batie

EDITOR'S NOTE: I tried this - but cooked rice rice separately. Am reprinting this recipe by popular demand.

Cajun Jambalaya
(Louisiana)

1 - 3 lb. frying chicken cut into serving pieces. Salt and pepper to taste.
2 - tablespoons bacon drippings or shortening.
2 - tablespoons flour
1 - lb. smoked sausage or smoked ham diced
2 - Onions chopped
1 - Green pepper diced
3 - cups of peeled and diced tomatoes
1 - clove garlic finely chopped
2 - cups shelled and deveined shrimp (about 1¼ lb.)
3 - cups of water
½ - teaspoon leaf thyme
½ - teaspoon hot pepper sauce or to taste
2 - cups uncooked rice
¼ - cup chopped parsley
1/3 - cup of finely chopped green onions (including green parts)

Season the chicken with salt and pepper and brown on all sides in the drippings or shortening in a heavy skillet. Stir the parsley and green onions and let cook for 5 min.

Action Childcare Demonstration in Olympia

Action Childcare is planning a demonstration in Olympia at the State Legislature Building on January 14th, at 12:00, the opening day for the legislature. The group will protest the "virtual elimination of quality child care in the State of Washington."

Action Childcare is an independent coalition of organizations and individuals interested in building a militant childcare movement The group's immediate goals are:

1. Regional Public hearings on the proposed state regulations before they are adopted.
2. Elimination of regulations discriminatory to racial and sexual minorities in the foster care section of the proposed regulations.
3. An increase in the state's payments to child care centers and homes to reflect the real cost of care.
4. That the state provide funds for child care centers in the public school facilities.
5. That the legislature, the governor, and the Department of Social and Health Services actively pressure the United States Congress for special revenue-sharing funds for child care; and passage of the Mondale/Brademus Child Development Act, which would provide funds for quality child care for every child that needs it.

The group welcomes additions to its speaker's list and will help to arrange for transportation and childcare for persons wishing to attend the demonstration. A planning meeting for the demonstration will be held on January 5 at the MDC office. 1702 1/2 Tacoma Ave., in Tacoma, at 2:00 p.m. All are welcome and childcare and transportation are provided. The Seattle address of the ACC is 2611 Boylston East. Phone numbers for the group are 329-5488, 725-0471, or 632-7449.

Columbia Pictures' boardroom, scene of a recent VIP cocktail reception following a private screening of the box-office hit, THE WAY WE WERE, starring Barbara Streisand and Robert Redford, provided the atmosphere and ready reference for discussions on the all-time great motion pictures. Exchanging such pleasantries while surrounding a trophy from Columbia's TO SIR WITH LOVE, which starred Sidney Poitier, are (from left) Dr. Aaron O. Wells, prominent New York City heart specialist; nationally noted socialite, Barbara Jacquet; Neville Burgess, Republic of Guyana Consul; and New York Urban League Executive Director Livingston Wingate. A poignant love story which spans the late 1930s through the early 1950s, THE WAY WE WERE is a Ray Stark-Sydney Pollack Production, which also features Bradford Dillman, Viveca Lindfors, Patrick O'Neal, Herb Edelman, Murray Hamilton and newcomer Lois Chiles. The critically-acclaimed film is now appearing before record viewers in theaters across the country.

Black Involvement in Expo '74

Alonzo C. Livers of Spokane has been appointed Director of Human Relations for Expo '74. Livers has attended Eastern Washington State College and Gonzaga University; and has been a prime mover in human rights activities in the Spokane area. His chief function will be to assist the administration and staff of Expo '74 in matters pertaining to the operation of Expo '74 with particular emphasis on corporate relations with minority and ethnic groups.

The struggle for an Afro-American Pavilion continues with realization of the proposed exhibit still indefinite. Spearheaded by Frank Russell, President of the Pan-African Foundation and also a consultant to the Expo Corporation staff; the pavilion is being effected by the traditional minimu priority on the part of the dominant society.

A condition for the receipt of certain funds is a commitment on the part of an institution or organization for the use and maintenance of the structure after the Worlds' Fair. As a back up to Eastern Washington State's expression of interest and intent, Talmadge Anderson, WSU's Black Studies Director and Frank Russell approached Dr. Glen Terrell, President of Washington State University, and received a statement of possible interest in the residual structure.

If the Afro-American Pavilion is successful, it will be the first of its kind depicting contributions of blacks to American society in the history of world fairs.

THE GOAL OF criticism is to leave the person with the feeling that he's been helped.

SIGN OF THE ZODIAC

Capricorn
December 23 through January 20

Capricorn the Goat, the tenth sign of the Zodiac, represents caution, prudence, and ambition as well as endurance. The ruling planet of this sign is SATURN. Practical and accurate, Capricorn persons never like to be dependent upon others, and their undertakings are planned with careful deliberation. These people are apt to become despondent and should therefore cultivate optimism and self-confidence. Many prominent manufactures, builders, educators, and politicians were born under this sign.

The Now Washbasket

By Bobbie Hill

The necessity of a perfect diaper wash for baby's health and comfort prompts many queries from conscientious mothers. Here are some of them:

What causes the tiny greaseballs that I sometimes find in pre-folded diapers after I've washed them a number of times?

They are the result of oil rubbed on your baby. Their presence means you are not washing the diapers in hot enough water. Possibly, too, you are not using enough soap or detergent.

What causes diaper pail odor?

Ammonia is the major cause. It is created when the baby's urine comes in contact with certain types of bacteria which can exist in diapers.

The energy crisis is with us, however it did not stop the cash register from ringing out its merry tune as Customers continued to make purchases for families, loved ones, and friend friends. Yet how many of us had the true meaning of Christmas? Did we give gifts out of love and the satisfaction of seeing a smile on the receivers face or did we give in the hope of receiving a gift in return? The material side of Christmas is good but the spirited magnitude of the church was as effective as ever. The churches were beautifully decorated and the choirs sang exceptionally well. At Holy Cross Cathalic Church for midnight mass, (where this writer attended with her husband) the mass was said in Latin and English, which brought back many fond memories. The recessional hymn, sund by the choir was "Battle Hymn of the Republic" with percussion instruments was very emotional.

Santa had gifts for most of the youngsters and everyone received candy.

TRAINING AID DONATED--- Eaton Laboratories area representative, Donald Swayzee, presents a color videocassette system to Madigan's Urology Chief, Colonel John N. Wettlaufer. The new educational tool which is being loaned on a long term basis, will add a new dimension to the training capabilities of the Service.

The Madigan Army Medical Center Urology Service added another weapon to its educational armamentarium just in time for Chirstmas. The new addition, a Sony color videocassette system, was loaned to the Service on a long-term basis by Eaton Laboratories, Division of Morton-Norwich Products, Inc.

The system was presented to the Urology Service by Michael Joins, regional representative for Eaton, and Donald Swayzee, area representative, on December 21. It was accepted by Colonel John N. Wettlaufer, Chief of Urology.

In addition to the videocassette system, which includes a T.V. receiver and a videocassette player, Eaton also loaned the Urology Service 7 videocassettes which discuss 22 different medical or surgical subjects. At intervals in the future, Eaton will provide additional videocassettes on other subjects for the Service's audio-visual library.

Expo beckons Blacks

It was a Black man who invented blood plasma. It was a Black who invented a machine that revolutionized the shoe industry.

The Black man, in fact, has made many contributions to the culture of the United States--and he has been doing it far longer than most European immigrants to the United States.

This, essentially, is the message that Black America will try to get across to the five million people expected to visit the Expo '74 World's Fair May 4 to November 3.

The plan is to set up an Afro-American pavilion.

Frank Russell of Tacoma, Washington, is director of the program. He said the project will cost about $500,000, and support is expected from private and government sources.

By year's end, he said, $85,000 had been contributed to the project and State Senator George T. Fleming, (D-Seattle) had initiated a strong effort in the legislature to raise $200,000 in State funds--a move backed by Governor Dan Evans.

The rest of the support was expected to come from private sources--largely Black foundations and enterprises.

A WOMAN RUSHED up to famed violinist Fritz Kreisler after a concert and cried:

"I'd give my life to play as beautifully as you do."

Kreisler replied, "I did."

Build Your Future BUY A HOME

The Department of Housing and Urban Development has many fine acquired homes throughout the Tacoma area, and all over western Washington. Some are nearly new. All are in good condition. All are reasonably priced, with low down payment.

As a homebuyer, you will realize several advantages: the interest you pay is wholly income tax deductible; you will soon build an equity in the value of your home...making your net worth grow; your home is your castle...yours to live in, in your own individual style.

HUD doesn't sell houses, so please don't call HUD for details. All sales are made through professional Real Estate brokers. Almost all licensed Real Estate brokers have complete lists of homes available. They will be glad to help you find the home suitable for you, and to answer all your questions. Call one today. Ask him about HUD availabilities.

City Funds Outreach

The City Council approved $91,000 for the Adult Outreach Program on Tuesday.

Adult Outreach will begin operation under the Department of Human Development in February as a city project. A similar proposal for the Tacoma Veterans Action Center was passed over for final consideration on December 26.

The council had delayed the action for one week to hear from the Pierce County Veterans Advisory Council. The council, which represents numerous veterans groups, endorsed the project with some reservations.

FAMILY FINANCE

Have you ever wondered how much money income you could get from your savings account? How much you could draw out, for how long?

A $10,000 savings account drawing 5 percent interest could give you a monthly payment of $75 for 16 years and 2 months. If you wanted to draw $100 a month from this same account, it would last 10 years and 9 months. Check your own bank for accurate figures on your account; these are rough approximations.

THERE'S NO SUCH thing as a perfect job. In any position you'll find some duties which, if they aren't onerous immediately, eventually will be. Success depends not merely on how well you do the things you enjoy, but how conscientiously you perform those duties you don't.

I DO NOT choose to be a common man. It is my right to be uncommon—if I can. I seek opportunity—not security. I do not wish to be a kept citizen, humbled and dulled by having the state look after me. I want to take the calculated risk; to dream and to build, to fail and to succeed. I refuse to barter incentive for a dole. I prefer the challenges of life to the guaranteed existence; the thrill of fulfillment to the stale calm of utopia. I will not trade freedom for benefice nor my dignity for a handout. I will never cower before any master nor bend to any threat. It is my heritage to stand erect, proud, and unafraid; to think for myself, enjoy the benefits of my creations, and to face the world boldly and say, this I have done. All this is what it means to be an American.

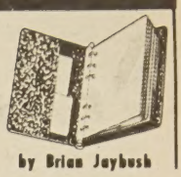
SPORTS RECORD BOOK

27 to 10



by Brian Jayhush

Seldom if ever in the now eight-year history of football's most prestigious postseason encounter--the Super Bowl--have the two opponents come from such diverse places to get to the same point.

But last Sunday the spectacle unfolded in front of the eyes of the nation: first the Minnesota Vikings dismantled the Dallas Cowboys to win the championship of the National Conference, after which the Miami Dolphins outclasses Oakland's Raiders to walk away with the American Conference crown.

Why are these two teams so different? Why will this be a classic matchup, even for the Bowl which has seen such class teams as the Green Bay Packers and the Kansas City Chiefs?

Miami, as most of you know, is the Reigning World Champion. On January 14, 1973, the Dolphins streaked to their 17th win in a row--the first time since 1934 that a professional football team had won that many games in a row--by outmanning the "Over-The-Hill-Gang" Washington Red Skins 14-7. It was Miami's second Super Bowl in a row.

What were the Minnesota Vikings doing on that day? Watching on TV--they finished the 1972 season with a 7 win, 7 loss record and in third place. In fact, the Vikings have never really been able to put it together lately; though winning their division in 1970 and 1971 they couldn't get past the first round of the playoffs. And in 1969, when they did make it to the Super Bowl, they were soundly trounced by Kansas City, 23-7.

The Miami Dolphins, on the other hand, have been Pro Football's Miracle Success Team. A An expansion team in 1966 in what was then the only 6-year-old American Football League, the Dolphins struggled their first three years, amassing only a dozen wins and finishing fifth, fourth and third in those years.

Then a man named Don Shula happened. The Dolphins "stole" him from Baltimore, where he had led the Colts to playoff spots for years. The Dolphins finished second to Baltimore that first year under Shula, with a 10-4 record; since then they haven't looked back. In fact, since Shula took over the Dolphins have won 46 games, losing only 10, for a phenomenal .820 winning percentage. This is their third Super Bowl in a row--no one has ever done that before. This is their third AFC championship in a row--no one has ever done that before.

The Dolphins are at the height of their glory--a young team with lots of winning years ahead of them, looking for their second World Championship in a row. The Vikings are a team of aging old pros, who have won a lot of games in their time--but never the World Championship --and don't have a whole lot of time left. Two teams from as dissimilar backgrounds as you could hope for.

And yet in their final test before their Super Bowl showdown, they each came to the same point:

Minnesota 27, Dallas 10
Miami 27, Oakland 10

One team will eventually win Super Bowl VIII. One team will be the Champion of the World. But after coming from so far apart to get to this point, the whole thing will really be anti-climactic.

He's not heavy, He's my brother

by - Andre' Young

Luther Simms' convictions for possession of herion and for being an habitual criminal have been reversed by the Court of Appeals (TNT articel, Dec. 8, 1973).

Several months ago, I made numerous critical comments about the Black and White Churches' apathy and lack of involvement as concerns the Criminal justice system and our judiciary branch of government. All of the responses (including the silence from my Sadducee brethren and sisters) consisted of questions like "Who is Luther Simms?"

I am convinced that it doesn't really matter any more whether the Church promises it will rise to the many revolutionary challenges of today and those that are forthcoming. Luther Simms hasn't been freed as yet, for he will very likely be re-tried by the Superior Court and be re-judged by the Board of Prison Terms and Paroles.

Last Saturday, I participated in an all-day Prison Reform Meeting at the First Methodist Church on 4th and K streets. It is hoped that the Social Concerns Committee of the Methodist Church, will find it expedient to get involved with the predicament of Luther Simms and others like him. Luther can be a productive member of our society!

At this time, not enough people seem to care about social matters in this most powerful of Institutions in American Society, the Church. What with all the hue and cry about high taxes, morality and responsibility, it would seem to me that the Church has failed abysmally to work with and try to solve the many pervasive social problems which abound, no matter what it says its purpose and mission is.

There is a well-known axiom in our culture that if one isn't a part of the solution, then one is part of the problem. I would like to see the Church become more a part of the solution and a source that the poor and alienated can depend on when they need a helping hand.

Some say the only certainties are death and taxes, and maybe this is true. But I know what good would certainly follow if the Church were ever to succeed in becoming a living example of Chirst's admonition that "if done to the least of these my brethren, it is done also unto me".

We claim that any man who is honest, fair, tolerant, kindly, charitable of others and well behaved is a success, no matter what his station in life.

VIVACIOUS VAMPIRE

Actress Teresa Graves, former star of the "Laugh-In" television show, proves that even a vampire can be a vivacious and lovable creature in this scene from VAMPIRA, recently filmed in London for Columbia Pictures. With "fangs" specially made-to-measure Teresa stars as Countess Dracula, teaming with the internationally acclaimed David Niven in the World Film Services Production. A unique mixture of high comedy and horror, VAMPIRA describes the hilarious and macabre adventures of Count Dracula in present-day London when he becomes heavily involved with a string of beautiful girls, as well as many other offbeat characters.

The holiday times are here once again and you will want to look your best for those special evening occasions. Remember people won't even remember the clothes you are wearing as much as they will remember your skin, your crown of glory (your hair), than they will remember the total look of your image.

Take extra care with your posture. You can have instant improvement in your figure by having good posture. To get the correct feel of good posture stand against a wall with your heels touching the woodwork, your shoulders touching the wall. While standing against the wall if your fist will fit behind your back behind your waist you should work on developing good posture. Walk away from the wall and you should be in good posture. When standing always tighten the muscles in your buttocks and thighs, as gravity is working against you all of the time, so remember to do the tighten up. When walking one foot should be placed directly in front of the other one. Small short steps are always more graceful. Remember your eye control and walk with your head up, indicating self pride. Now is the time to really become involved with you self image, use a full length mirror to practice your walking and for developing good posture. The mirror will help develop good self control.

If you have any questions about self-improvement write and ask me. Your letter will be printed in the Facts Newspaper - 1325 S. "K" St. - Write Today.

Getting Smart

BY WALTER L. SMART
Executive Director
National Federation of Settlements and Neighborhood Centers

This time of the year should be a time of joy, worship and remembrance of good things past, and hope for a better future. But for close to one-third of the entire Black American population, it will be one of rising costs with little or no hope for more than barest survival.

In a recent report by the Department of the Census, it was revealed that Black folk remain far behind whites in most socio-economic categories.

Here are just a few facts their report revealed:
--the median income of Black families is just over half than for white families,
--one-third of the entire Black population lives under poverty conditions--$4,275 for a family of four--as compared to 1/10 of the white population.
--the number of poor Black families headed by women rose to one million as compared to 700,000 in 1968,
--on the average, Black unemployment reached 10% as compared to a 5% rate for whites,
--Black teenage unemployment rose to 33.5% in 1972 from 26.3% in 1967. One-third of all Black teenagers are unemployed.
--twenty-five percent of all Black families receive some form of public assistance as compared to 5% for whites.

These are just some of the despicable details which not only shame the Congress, the President, and the economic system.

Let's not kid ourselves. The heat is being put on Nixon because of Watergate, his aloofness, his politics and because he is a Republican President with a Democratic Congress. Our noble Congressmen have not united to save us, the consumer, the voter, the poverty stricken, the parent, the worker.

Throughout Watergate, we are the ones left holding the bag.

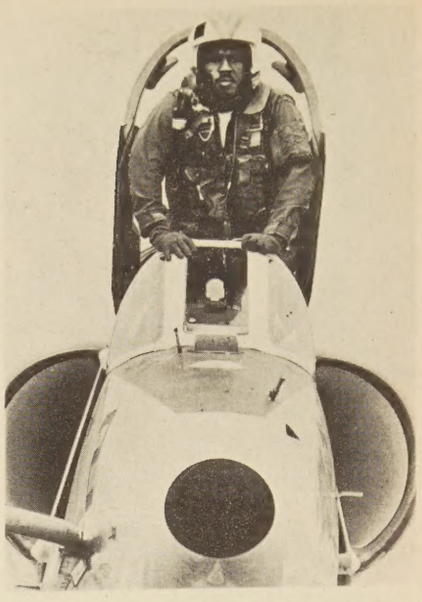
Many of us mistakingly believe that because of the current turmoil in government, the political direction toward a laissez-faire, capitalism will cease and our government will take a real stand to ensure an adequate income for all its citizens. We also may believe that somehow our political leaders will understand the folly of their ways and thereby develop far-reaching efforts to remedy the problems of crime, poverty and ignorance.

It seems obvious that our leadership is more concerned with televising football games that are sold out 72 hours in advance than they are with the current impoundment of desperately needed housing funds, the funding of emergency medical services, raising the minimum wage, establishing inexpensive no-fault insurance, establishing a national consumer protection agency and revamping our tax system.

You can never get much of anything done unless you go ahead and do it before you are ready.

THEY SAY YOU should never put off for tomorrow what can be done today. But some things are best postponed, especially an angry retort.

SECOND BLACK MARINE COMMANDS JET SQUADRON



A Marine fighter squadron that became famous in World War II when there were no Black Marine aviators is today commanded by one.

He is Lt. Col. Clarence L. Davis, who joined the Navy 20 years ago to pay his way through medical school. Davis learned to fly, became a Marine aviator and has been flying ever since.

The squadron is VMA-214, known as the "Blacksheep." Sixteen A4M "Skyhawk" jet fighters are assigned to it at the El Toro Marine Corps Air Station near Santa Ana, Calif.

Lt. Col. Davis thus became the second black officer to command a tactical Marine squadron. The first, Lt. Col. Frank Peterson, commanded a Phantom squadron in Vietnam.

Davis saw action in Vietnam as a helicopter pilot, winning the Distinguished Flying Cross and 20 air - medals. Twice his gunship was shot down as he supported American, Vietnamese and Korean troops in 1968 and 1969.

His intellectual interests are as widespread as his flying experience. Lt. Col. Davis is a trained chemist and an experienced data processing officer. He has flown approximately 2,500 hours in jets, 1,000 hours in propeller-driven fixed-wing aircraft and 400 hours in helicopters, including 400 combat missions. He also has completed jump school.

Davis believes there is no better way to become a pilot, get a college education and serve your country than by participating in the ROTC or Marine Corps Platoon Leader Class for Aviation programs. "The Marine Corps will even pay for you to go to private classes to get a civilian pilot's license if you're still in college and want to start flying before your Marine air training," he says. "Marine recruiters and officer selection officers can provide further details of these programs." he adds.

His parents, Walter and Lillius Davis, live in San Francisco. He has two children, Tyra and Ronald, who are 16 and 15, respectively.

THE DEVELOPMENT OF a new product is a three step process: first, an American firm announces an invention; second, the Russians claim they made the same discovery twenty years ago; third, the Japanese start exporting it.
